U.S. immigration law requires all schools to verify whether students requesting visa documents have one year of financial resources immediately available for themselves and their dependents before visa documents are issued.

In addition to federal requirements, The Ohio State University requires students and their sponsors to certify that adequate funding will continue to be available for the entire length of study for themselves and their declared dependents.

By completing the first of the following 3 sections, you indicate that you understand how much attendance at Ohio State will cost in a given year. Use the International Graduate Student Budget to find the estimated expenses that will appear on your I-20. If you are in a professional program, use the International Professional Student Budget. Below, enter the total expenses listed for 9 months if you plan to arrive for in-person courses at the start of autumn or spring term; use the total expenses for 12 months if your in-person study begins at the start of summer term. The term "Total Expenses" means the total of tuition, university fees, health insurance, living expenses, books, and supplies for a 9 or 12 month stay. Enter the 9 or 12 month "Total Expenses" found in these guides as your estimate even if you have university support. If requesting visa documents for your dependents, calculate their expenses using the table at the bottom of the budget guides then enter in the space provided below. Note: The Ohio State University I-20 Forms will reflect estimated expenses for a 9-month academic year unless you plan to arrive in the U.S. for in-person summer courses.
